Discover Rhyl

Rhyl is a historic seaside town in North Wales, located on the north coast along the Irish Sea, approximately 25 miles west of Chester. It is the largest town centre in Denbighshire.

In recent years, Rhyl has undergone significant regeneration and investment. Supported by funding from the Welsh government and Denbighshire County Council, the town is experiencing major development across tourism, leisure, housing and transport. Current projects include a £5.5 million investment in green space enhancements and travel infrastructure, as well as a £300,000 upgrade to the promenade.

Rhyl's identity is shaped by its coastal heritage and long-standing role as a popular seaside destination. Once a thriving Victorian resort known for its pier, promenade, and holiday attractions, the town has a rich history in tourism and entertainment. Today, Rhyl is undergoing a period of transformation, with its economy increasingly driven by sectors such as tourism, leisure, retail and regeneration.

The town is also home to architectural and cultural landmarks, such as the Pavilion Theatre, Rhyl Miniature Railway, and the SC2 waterpark, reflecting Rhyl's commitment to tourism, community and seaside leisure.
